The DIMMER VIEW

by Max Goodwin

Textbook and the Citizen

A number of years ago, when economic pressures were not so great in the east county, this column discovered that hundreds of books were being transported to the dump after the books were declared no longer useful as a teaching tool.

Following the disclosure of this waste, the school district changed its policy. Now, local residents may obtain these outdated books without charge.

If only one book is exposed to a youngster, the bother of making books available to school supporters will have paid dividends in education, we opined.

For generations, producing textbooks was a political plum sought after by most book publishers. And the racket of frequent textbook changes was practiced throughout the nation.

This wasteful shakedown has decreased in recent years and textbooks are handed down on an annual reduction percentage of cost from student to student. Here, also, there is local option and textbooks are used for a much greater length of time.

It is not known how many districts follow the policy of making surplus books available to the public, but it's a good policy — one that extends the learning ethic beyond the confines of the schoolroom. For example, a sixth grade English book is often used in the office where this column is written. And before someone says "It looks like it!", let him take a look at his writing production and perhaps find an occasional need for a sixth grade refresher.

The material here, however, is intended to focus attention on what is being taught rather than the textbook distribution policy.

Let's agree that moral concepts are not what they were a generation ago. But it would be better if they were! Textbooks in some instances are reflecting this trend. Some textbook publishers attempting to anticipate what the moral and ethical standards will be, have changed the thrust from that of high morality to that based on permissiveness. Some textbooks printed and sold to school systems by large publishers simply do not measure up to good moral standards.

In Washington County, Virginia, for instance, 500 irate parents have protested "blasphemies and obscenities" found in a public school textbook called "Responding Series".

In Texas, a public school book (allegedly a "history") was found to contain three pages of history regarding Marilyn Monroe and three lines of history pertaining to George Washington. Angry parents protested this approach on the basis that it did little to prepare the student for a life service to his government, his community, or his chosen career.

In the light of Watergate it is becoming obvious that a higher degree of moral and ethical behavior will be demanded of those who enter public life or business enterprise. The logical place to inculcate such high values of loyalty, patriotism, and devotion to duty is our public schools.

All of these concepts are involved in the guidelines suggested by Dr. Waldon P. Shofstall, Arizona State Superintendent of Public Education, in determining the value of a textbook:

Patriotism and love of country are essential to peace and prosperity.

Government should encourage work productiveness, profit, saving, investment and individual property.

The Biblical teaching of faith, hope and charity on the part of the individuals is essential — implied, if not dealt with directly.

There is a Supreme Power greater than man or his nature.

The eternal problem of society is to attain the maximum of individual freedom and love of fellow man with a minimum of government regulation and intervention.

The family is the basic social unit in our society and that which tends to destroy the family is anti-social.

The concepts of good, evil, self-respect, and guilt, are necessary for achieving the maximum of good and minimum evil in our personal lives.

"As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." If we are going to have a great country, we need great people; and if we are going to encourage the development of great people from among today's students, we must be sure they learn and understand that we do have a great country.

And they won't learn that if they are given only three lines of information about George Washington.

Purses in the News

It's hard to believe that such a story would ever hit the wire services — but last week it did.

In Los Angeles, the story relates, a man who habitually wears women's clothes complained to police that someone had snatched his purse.

One that didn't make the wire was a report on the local Sheriff's office file last week.

A Lemon Grove woman reported that a man who didn't belong in her house had quietly crawled into her bed about 3 a.m. one morning last week.

Her complaint — he stole her purse when he sneaked out!

Birth of Christ Reported

Each year at Christmastime the story of the birth of Christ is published in this newspaper as it would have been written by today's reporters.

The front page feature is extremely popular and requests for copies of the issue come for many days after Christmas.

Because Christmas comes on Wednesday this year and this newspaper is distributed on Thursday, the Christmas issue with the birth of Christ story will appear earlier than usual. It will appear next week — on December 19.

The feature covers the entire front page and many sub-sections mail it to friends and relatives.

Because of the early publication date it may be mailed this year in time to arrive for Christmas.

Those who wish to reserve one or more copies may do so by calling 469-0101.

PRETTY FOR THE HOLIDAYS — Pretty Kim Sherman, Sea World's Santa's helper, ties bows on some of the hundreds of poinsettias which will add to the festive appearance of Sea World to be displayed starting next week through New Year's Day. Sea World is open 9 a.m. to dusk and will be open on Christmas Day.

L.G. Patio Firm Loses License

The Contractor's license of Chuck May Patios, 3510 Harris st., Lemon Grove, was revoked November 7 for the following alleged violations, according to the Contractors' State License Board: abandoning a project without legal excuse, failing to complete a project for the price stated in the contract, failing to comply with all sections of the Contractor's License Law, and committing a willful or fraudulent act as a contractor.

Sunday Winds Cause Outages

High winds are theorized to be the cause of two brief power outages that occurred in Spring Valley Sunday.

The area affected by the power failures was a block east of Bancroft dr. to Galo-pago st. and encompassed Lakeview dr. south to Carls-bad st.

Both outages involved the same area.

Electricity failed at 5:03 p.m. and was restored at 5:29 p.m., according to Carl Welte, San Diego Gas and Electric spokesman. A second failure darkened homes from 7:07 to 7:41 p.m., Welte said.

Senior Citizens' Lunch To Fete Volunteers

More than 82,000 hours of volunteer service to the community during the past year will be saluted—together with the men and women who contributed this time—at the third annual recognition luncheon for the San Diego Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP), to be held at 11:30 a.m. on Wednesday, at the U. S. Grant Hotel.

This event is sponsored by the Volunteer Bureau, a division of United Way of San Diego County.

RSVP is funded by a grant from ACTION and local support funds. The purpose of the program is to serve in an intermediary capacity between senior citizens who wish to volunteer their time and skills and non-profit community service agencies which need the assistance of volunteers.

Primary emphasis is placed upon assisting and facilitating appropriate volunteer placement for the seniors based on their particular interests and backgrounds.

Representatives from various community service agencies and city, county, state and federal government will attend to recognize the equivalent of 10,250 eight-hour days of volunteer service during the past fiscal year.

Dealer Loses New Ford Truck

Who says autos aren't moving?

A yellow Ford pickup parked on the front line of the display lot at Corral Ford was missing Saturday when the firm opened for business.

There was no evidence that the truck had been towed away. The vehicle was locked and the keys were in the office where they normally are kept.

Corral is located at 7220 Broadway in Lemon Grove. The value of the truck is $6,600.

This week Sheriff's detective Robert Williams apprehended a couple who had taken a new truck from the same place two weeks earlier. The 22-year old male admitted having duplicate keys made while giving the truck a test ride. He and his female accomplice came back during the closed hours and drove off the truck.

The couple, of Vista La Mesa, are being tried this week in San Diego.

Giant Tree to Light Up Sea World for Holidays

When most families think of trimming their Christmas tree, they envision an evening's work: testing and stringing lights, placing the old favorite ornaments on the branches, and finally, topping the tree with an angel or a star.

At San Diego's Sea World, however, it's a little different project. First, the tree trimming starts, instead of ends, with the placement of the star. And it takes 12 workers 10 days to complete the tree.

Each holiday season the 320-foot tall tree with a 12-foot star becomes a city landmark, and the Southland's tallest Christmas tree.

The star, with its 122 lights, was raised last week and the entire tree will be completed and ready for lighting this Saturday.

David M. DeMotte, president of Sea World, will pull the switch at 5 p.m. This is the signal for the start of the Mission Bay parade of lighted boats.

The tree will be formed by

This Week's RECIPE

Creamed Celery is Interesting Side Dish

Celery need not always be served from the relish tray. It's delicious braised or creamed, too. The flavor complements that of many meats in true gourmet style.

Now, when celery is especially abundant in markets, make good use of this flavorful vegetable. Cook it in salted water just until tender crisp.

To make the cream sauce for this and other vegetables use corn starch as the thickening agent. It makes consistently smooth sauces and thickens quickly.

CREAMED CELERY
1 cup water
1 large bunch celery, cut into 1/2-inch pieces (about 6 1/2 cups)
3/4 cup milk
2 table spoons corn starch
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
Dash ground nutmeg
3 table spoons margarine

The Contemporary Creativity Forum continues at 7:30 p.m. in the Alpine Elementary School Multipurpose Room when three creative documentary films are screened. The program is repeated at 8 p.m., Wednesday in the Recital Hall. Clarence Jasmagy, Grossmont College photography instructor, introduces the films and serves as discussion leader.

Tijerina, 'Snake' Hampton Close Season's Fights Friday

Light heavyweight whiz kid 3 pro slate and has already Carlos Tijerina of Pacific gone the 10 round route on Beach, a winner in all eight five prior occasions. He is the of his pro starts (seven via stablemate of state middle-knockout), will be tested in weight champion George Coop-his first main event against er.

Oakland's "Snake" Hampton Featherweight teenage sen- this Friday night at the Coli- sation Manuel Lujan will not seum. appear on this weeks card as previously announced. A lacer- ated right hand has caused Lujan's cancellation on Fri- day. A feud between promoter Davies and Lujan's manager Juan Bustamante has made future appearances in San Di- ego uncertain.

Last Week
Strange things are happen- ing in the Coliseum ring.

Three weeks ago middle- weight Mike Nixon slugged Manuel Fierro in the groin with a double-whammy.

They allowed Pterro, who was ahead on points, to rent five minutes and required him to continue.

Apparently weakened by the low blows, he performed at about 50% of ability and was declared the loser on points by ring officials.

Friday night, with Nixon in again, this time against Dav- id Loxe, Nixon laid a phantom low blow on Love in the 9th round and Love fell to the canvas in apparent pain. Ring- siders saw it as a smash to the stomach at belt level — a legal blow. In his dressing room, still appearing to be in pain, both Love and his man- ager, Dave Roberts, said the blow was at the crotch.

Odd Events

Just prior to that, in the 3th round, soon after the 10- second lights were lit, Love started for his corner, defense down. Nixon swarmed over him and had Love helpless against the rope when the bell rang. Nixon continued to pour it on Love after the bell but was pulled away by referee Frank Rustich.

After a long rest occasion- ed by the officials trying to decide what to do, the fight continued into the ninth — but not for long. That's when Love claimed the low blow hit him. He was given another ten minutes of rest but he was not able to continue.

Strangely, officials stopped the fight by calling it a "no decision". Three weeks before they used diferent rules. Box- ing rules, it appears, are made on a week-to-week basis.

The decision was greeted with showers of beer to the ring as patrons from as far up as the top deck tossed their refreshments to show their dissatisfaction. One fan in the second row, walked to ringside where officials were discussing the unusual turn of events, and tossed the con- tents of a large container of beer on them. It was the dol- lar economy size!

Joe Olmos, chief inspector for the State Athletic (Box- ing) Commission said an in- vestigation would be made of the unusual activities.

In other activity Friday night lightweight Victor de la Cruz won a unanimous four- round decision over Pedro Hernandez and featherweight Jose Marcias did the same to Tommy Nava in six.

TAKE FIVE

By John E. Wirges

In the annals of history, 1974 will be logged as "Miller Time." Oh, there are undoubtedly those who will point fingers and say, "Ah ha, what about the Oakland A's? This is the year they won their third straight World Series."

True the tri-winning "A's" have earned a few votes, but clearly Oakland will never gain popular support ... as a team or as a city.

Not even Tommy Prothro turning the Chargers around to a point where they look as if they're headed in the right direction, or rookie running back Don Woods gaining more than 1,000 are events enough to dim the brilliance of the fair hatred lad from Brigham Young.

Johnny Miller is Babe Ruth, Stan Musial, Ted Wil- liams, Knute Kockne, O. J. Simpson, Jack Dempsey and Wilhelmina the Wonder Dog all rolled into one.

In December most business men, athletes, govern- ment workers, lovers and libbers look back on the pre- ceding 11 months and tell themselves (1) it has been a helluva year, or (2) IT HAS BEEN A HELLUVA YEAR. Miller earned the capital treatment in 1974. In fact, John Lawrence Miller could have capitalized himself in three weeks into the '74 PGA campaign.

Remember last January's headlines? Miller came out of the club house swinging for the fence. He captured the Bing Crosby, the Phoenix Open, and, in the third tournament of the fresh year, won the Tucson Open.

He took a few weeks off to let the other boys on the PGA trail earn a few bucks, then picked up the Heritage Classic title on the way to La Costa and the MONY Tournament of Champions crown.

Miller pocketed more than $200,000 and five titles before the flowers of May.

He broke up the summer by playing in the U.S. Open, the British Open and the PGA (none of which he won— and in his case you must make that footnote) then hit the tournament trail with serious intent again in late August after a restful vacation.

Should come as no surprise that Miller won the Westchester Classic.

He took time out to give considerable credit to his caddy, Andy Martinez. Miller, in a story well covered in Golf World, insisted he will skip the '75 PGA tourney if he is not allowed to bring Martinez with him.

(Rules forbid tour caddies in the PGA, Masters, U.S. and Western Opens.)

Miller is enough of a man ... better make that MAN, to stand up for the workers of his trade. That's something not all executives do ... in any line of work.

To quote Golf World on the incident, "We're a team. He's a bright intelligent guy, a good friend. Let's face it, the days of touring caddies being drunks or winos is over. These kids out here are sharp. They're a credit to the tour. They help us ... they make us look more professional."

To prove his point, Miller went out and won the World Open and the Kaiser Open, breaking Jack Nick- laus' all time money winning record by more than $23,000. Miller banked $352,708 in official earnings this year, more than 100 grand better than Nicklaus ... who is in second place.

Johnny was an easy winner of the Western Golf Writers and Broadcasters "Golfer of the Year" crown and will be honored at beautiful La Costa Jan. 6th with a special "Johnny Miller" day. Miller will play a few holes each with golf donkeys like yours truly, then share the fun and frolic of a scrumptious La Costa dinner hosted by Allard Roen, chairman of the MONY Tourna- ment of Champions, and Jim Bingay, president of Mut- ual of New York.

The way Miller plays, it could be his last day of fun and relaxation until he decides the 1975 golf champion- ship. Late that week he opens defense of his Phoenix title and ... who knows? By the time the Andy Wil- liams-San Diego Open comes around on Feb. 13 Johnny might have already locked things away for a second straight year.

Looks like those MONY folks have their title riding on the shoulders of a sure thing.

Sunday's feature, the to be presented the top rider Hemet, will be for 3-year-olds and handler during a cere- and upward over the one mile and one-sixteenth course.

First post time both Satur- day and Sunday remains noon with 11 races each day.

Flores won four races over the weekend to remain 10 ahead of Wilfrido Osuna, 81 to 71, in the riding competi- tion.

Bill Overstreet continues to be the track's leading appren- tice with 48 wins, a lead of 10 over Hebert Olguin.

Garcia sent seven horses to the track over the weekend and won with two, thereby maintaining a 71 to 61 edge over Bob Sinne. The latter sent 17 horses to the races Saturday and Sunday, win- ning with two, while finish- ing second three times and third twice.

Once again Caliente en- joyed a good weekend of racing as an estimated 20,000 fans wagered $855,564 during the two-day period.

Since there was not a lone winner in the 5-10 handicap- ping contest either Saturday or Sunday, the reserve jack- pot climbed to $60,649 and will be added to the regular pool if there is a single ticket winner Saturday.

Att. Gen. Offers Holiday Message: Be Careful

The period until New Year's Day has been labeled "Danger Days" by Attorney General Evelle J. Younger, who offers advice to shoppers, speed limit is also responsible for accidents, pedestrians and motorists.

Danger Days, he tells us, affect every resident of the State—adults and youngsters.

Shopper's Beware

Here's some advice for shoppers given by the State's chief law officer:

Always place purchases in the automobile trunk, lock your car and close the windows, hold your purchases tightly to avoid their being taken, hold on to your purse, don't forget to get your charge plate back from the sales clerk.

Merchants, he continues, should be on the lookout for bad check artists and should always require good identification when cashing checks.

Pedestrian Safety

Pedestrians also get some advice from Younger:

Cross only at street corners, obey all signals, look both ways before crossing and be sure the way is clear, never cross or enter the roadway from between parked cars and always carry or wear something white when walking at night.

Message to Motorists

Automobile drivers are urged to have someone drive them home if they plan to drink at holiday parties. Drivers should also keep car windows clean, maintain head and tail lights, be patient in heavy traffic, and always be on the alert for pedestrians and cars entering the roadway from side streets and parking areas.

Fruit Cakes Sold For Mt. Miguel Band Trip

The "Fruit Cake Ladies" of Mt. Miguel are helping the Matadors Marching Band raise funds for their New Year's appearance in the Rose Bowl Parade in Pasadena.

Mrs. Lillian Mayer and Mrs. Dusty Parker are selling "Texas Manor" and "Benson" brand fruit cakes in decorative gift cans.

The Fruit Cake Ladies are Mrs. Lillian Mayer, 460-4659; and Mrs. Dusty Parker, 465-2315.

Benefit Car Wash Set

275 students of Spring Valley Junior High School will turn out for a benefit car wash for Home of Guiding Hands at Lou's Shell Station, 9663 Campo road, Spring Valley, on Wednesday, 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

The students will wash all cars for $1, proceeds being used to purchase Christmas toys for Deaf-Blind and Multi-handicapped children at the Home, a residential and educational facility for the mentally and physically handicapped.

He also noted that the 55 miles per hour speed limit is still in effect as a conservation measure. The reduced speed limit is also responsible for accidents, pedestrians and motorists.

This year according to an analysis from the California Highway Patrol.

The Attorney General also has some advice for parents to give to their children: hitchhiking is dangerous and should be avoided, and young people should be encouraged to participate in vacation recreation programs at local parks and playgrounds.

Four Teams In San Diego Hoop Tourney

Four solid teams, all capable of taking top honors, match points in the Second Annual University of San Diego Invitational basketball tournament, Friday and Saturday nights.

First round action finds U.S. International University meeting Cal Poly Pomona at 7 p.m., followed by a 9 p.m. game between host USD and UC San Diego in the Torero gym. The two winners face each other in the 9 p.m. Saturday finale after a 7 p.m. consolation contest.

Defending champion USIU rates as the pre-tourney pick. The Westerners won their own invitational affair last week by upending UCSD and captured the USD event last year with a victory over the Toreros.

USIU coach Bob Kloppenberg should open with a lineup bulwarked by 6-7 senior center R. J. Kunysz, 6-4 forward Leo Harris and guards Thad Jackson, 6-1, and Chet Hancock, 6-3.

USD mentor Jim Brovelli figured to have a strong front line but not much backcourt manpower but early season appearances have reversed that thinking.

Torero guards Joe DeMaestri and Jim Ferguson, both 6-0, direct an offense that also lists 6-9 senior Neil Traub at center and 6-7 Allan Jones and 6-4 Ken Smith at forwards.

UC San Diego with coach Barry Cunningham at the helm of the Tritons after a two year absence, has 6-7 senior pivot Paul Trainer in his fourth varsity year. Other veteran starters include 6-4 Joe Coit at a forward and 6-3 guard George Calhoun.

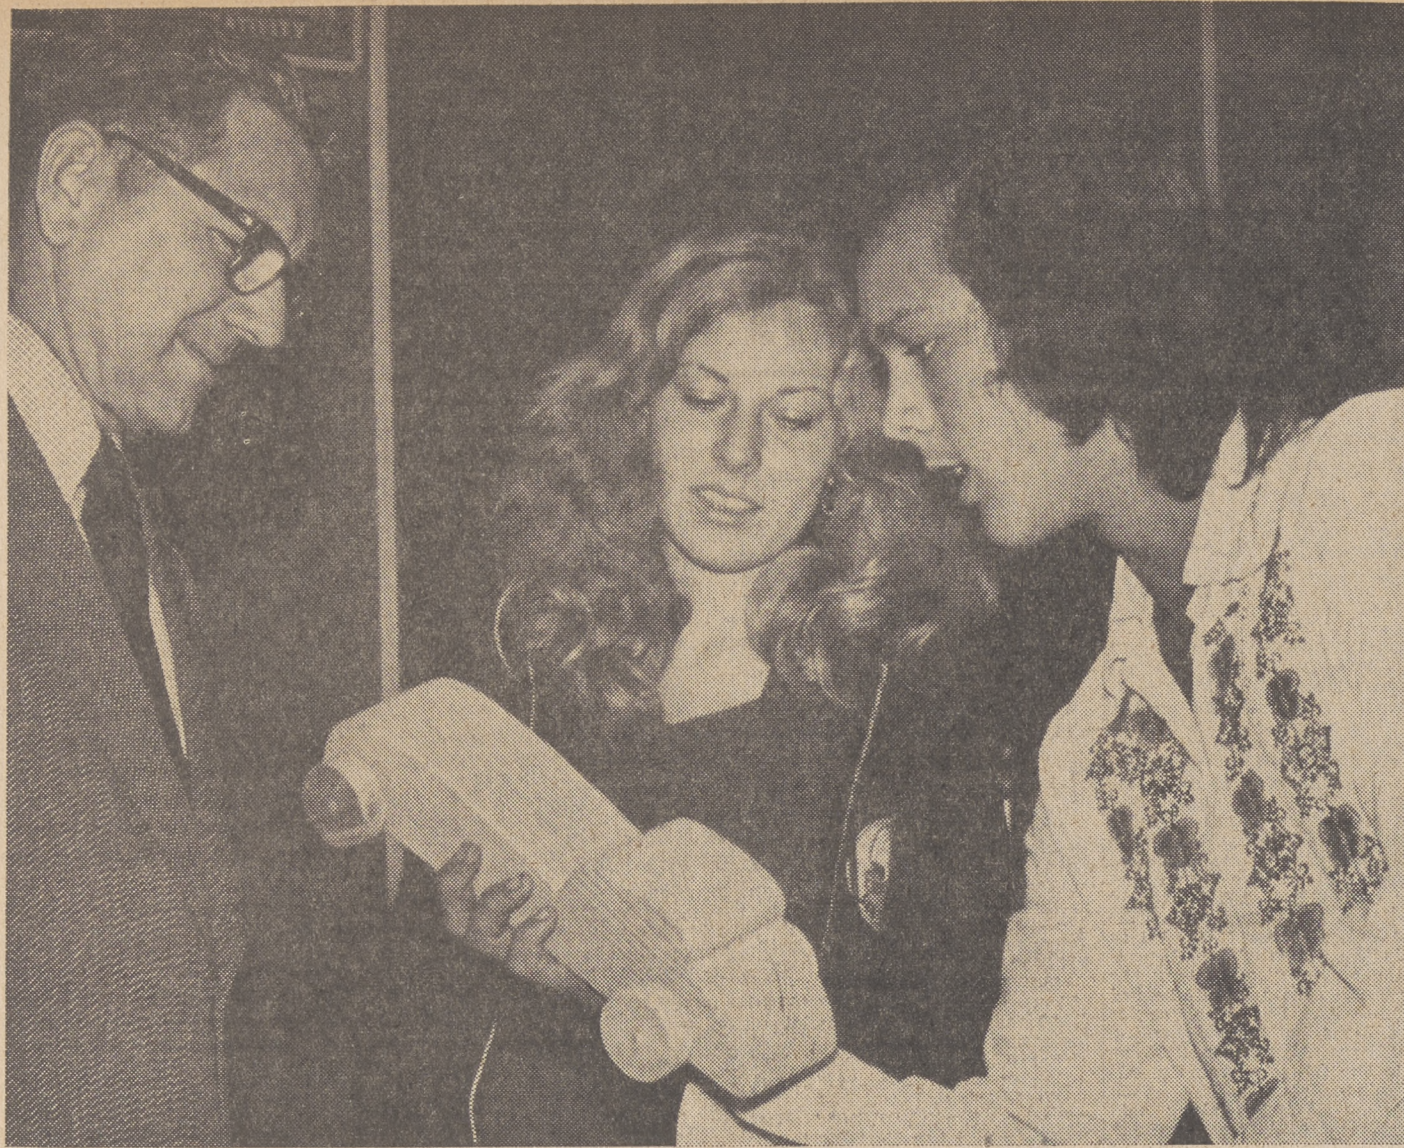

Cal Poly Pomona is coming off a 9-17 won-loss record this year but Bronco coach Don Hogan has bolstered his forces with some talented newcomers. Returnees Paul Newton, 6-4, and Art Williams, 6-6, at forwards and 6-0 guard Horace Aubrey all have impressive credentials.

Stereo Items Stolen

Burglars entered the home of Fortune Alesi at 8161 Lincoln st., Lemon Grove, recently and took away an AM/FM radio and stereo speakers—all valued at $350.

They broke a window to enter but police have a good lead on the culprit, it was said. Soon after sheriff's detectives started to work on the case, the equipment turned up, during the night, on the porch of a neighbor.

Some juveniles are being questioned.

DISPLAY MODEL — Lance Gilliland of Mt. Miguel High School and Meg Gellay, who attends Monte Vista High School, display a model of a wooden car their Junior Achievement company (Hopeful Enterprises) will be selling soon. Inspecting the product is E. J. Brunick, general customer operations manager for Pacific Telephone, whose company is sponsoring the JA firm. Both students reside in Spring Valley.

Stop Vitamin C Fetish, UCSD Prof. Advises

Excessive use of ascorbic acid, or vitamin C, on a regular basis by persons hoping to build up resistance to colds and other respiratory ailments can actually bring about the opposite effect, a UCSD scientist has shown.

According to Dr. Gerhard N. Schrauzer, Professor of Chemistry at UCSD, although ascorbic acid is considered harmless in single large doses, continual consumption of massive doses alters the vitamin C regulating system of the body leading to an acceleration of the breakdown and excretion of the vitamin.

Through this acceleration, the body adjusts itself to unnecessarily high intakes of the vitamin, Schrauzer said. The body's need for vitamin C became the subject of much discussion in 1970 following the publication by Dr. Linus Pauling of a book which promoted the use of vitamin C for the treatment or prevention of colds. The nationwide publicity given to the alleged desirability of heavy doses in fighting the common cold led to what Schrauzer called widespread abuse of the vitamin.

The popularity of the vitamin has not tapered off. A recent survey indicates that the demand for vitamin C has steadily increased since 1970. "It seems that there is an unnecessary high amount of vitamin C being taken and the current practice of overconsumption has little merit and should be gradually stopped," Schrauzer said.

With 75.3% of the 1974 goal pledged, leaders of the United Way/CHAD First Combined Campaign announced a three-week extension of the drive. Pledges totaling $6,046,274—nearly $2 million short of the announced goal of $8,033,980—were reported at a campaign achievement meeting held in November at the Old Globe Theater.

Originally scheduled to end November 27, the drive has been extended to December 17.

The United Way/CHAD campaign was launched September 25, with an announced goal of $8,033,980, a sum regarded as essential to support the 90 human care agencies of United Way and the nine health agencies of CHAD.

Mills, Van Deerlin Booked as Speakers

Two prominent Democrats will be speakers at different meetings scheduled by the San Diego Men's Democratic Club. On Friday, December 20, State Senator James Mills will address a luncheon in the U.S. Grant hotel.

On January 10, U.S. Congressman Lionel Van Deerlin will be speaker. Mills, last week, was re-elected State Senate president pro-tempore. Van Deerlin was last month re-elected to the U.S. House of Representatives.

The meetings are open to the public.

Among the items needed in the application are proof of identity and residency (applicants must be San Diego County residents), and three letters of character reference. Complete information is available at the Sheriff's licensing section, 222 West "C" street, San Diego and at all outlying Sheriff's offices including the one on Broadway in Lemon Grove.

The Census Bureau reported that 12.8 percent of the population is unmarried.

Thinks again for a fine tribute.

Sincerely, Bob Sutton, Superintendent

Lemon Grove School District

Forest Sup. Warns Against Tree Cutting

Each Christmas more people want to select and cut their own Christmas trees. Cleveland National Forest Supervisor Donald H. Smith cautioned that trees cannot be indiscriminately cut on public or private lands.

Smith stated that "The cutting and removal of Christmas trees is prohibited on all National Forest lands in California." The practice of providing free Christmas trees was abandoned during the mid 1950's because the demand exceeded the number of trees available.

A person convicted of cutting trees or shrubs on National Forest land under Section 384a of the California Penal Code is punished by a maximum penalty of $500

New Rules for Gun Permits

Obtaining a permit to carry a concealed weapon will be more difficult in 1975 under new regulations issued by Sheriff John F. Duffy, the only official who issues the permits in San Diego County.

"Applicants will not only have to demonstrate a real need to have a permit, they will now have to prove they know how to use their pistol safely and with reasonable skill," Sheriff Duffy said.

He said the same rules will be applied to renewals.

Under the new regulations, applicants must present the weapon for safety inspection, then take a written firearms safety examination, and finally fire 20 rounds at a target 15 yards away. At least 15 of the shots must hit the target. The tests will be conducted at the Sheriff's pistol range in the jail basement.

"If the gun and the applicant pass the safety tests, our licensing section will process his application. That takes from six to 10 weeks because a careful investigation is made of each applicant as to the validity of the need and the character of the applicant," Duffy said.

Among the items needed in the application are proof of identity and residency (applicants must be San Diego County residents), and three letters of character reference.

Complete information is available at the Sheriff's licensing section, 222 West "C" street, San Diego and at all outlying Sheriff's offices including the one on Broadway in Lemon Grove.
